

Introducing presenters at Tax Matrix Pty Ltd

Rachel Ritchie

BA, GradDipInfoMgt, AALIA

Rachel is the Research Manager of Tax Matrix Pty Ltd and spends her professional time working as a researcher and trainer for Tax Matrix Pty Ltd as well as a librarian in a public library service in Victoria.

Rachel has a broad range of experience in library, research and training roles.

After qualifying in 2004 Rachel moved to Brisbane where she established a remote office for Tax Matrix.

She then spent some time working in a University Library in Queensland before moving to New South Wales to a position in a public library service. During this time Rachel continued to provide research and training services for Tax Matrix.

In 2008 Rachel returned to Melbourne where she took up a position as librarian and trainer for the law firm Clayton Utz.

Rachel is an active member of the Australian Library and Information Association (ALIA) and currently serves as the Treasurer for the Special Libraries (Victoria) Committee and as a member of the ALIA Victoria Committee.

She has also published numerous articles in industry publications, including:

- ◆ Australian Law Librarian (Rachel is also a book reviewer for this journal)
- ◆ InCite
- ◆ Specials Delivery
- ◆ Public Library News (NSW)

Rachel was the recipient of the 2010 Ted Glasson Australian Law Librarian Award for her feature article 'Why We Will Always Need Books'.

Rachel joined Tax Matrix in 2003 and has been on its panel of presenters since 2005.

Rachel has provided Tax Research Online training for the Australian Taxation Office and has been a presenter at a Melbourne Tax Discussion Group.
